

1      ABSTRACT

2      A process identifies one or more roles associated with a target server. The 3      process also identifies one or more services associated with each role and 4      identifies one or more ports associated with each role. The identified ports 5      associated with the role are presented to a user. The user is requested to select 6      among the identified ports associated with the role.
